FUNCTIONALITY WITH DESIGN

Neura Science Research Australia, Prince of Wales Hospital, Randwick, NSW Architect Cox Richardson Architects

Neuroscience Research Australia (NeuRA) is an independent, not for profit research institute based in Sydney, Australia. As a leader in brain and nervous system research, our goal is to prevent, treat and cure brain and nervous system diseases, disorders and injuries through medical research.

Design with performance and colour, comfort and safety underfoot from the café area to the high tech laboratories were some of the requirements for this project. With superior chemical resistance the floor has been designed to perform under the most stringent conditions.

‘There will never be regret for using a quality proven product with low life cycle costs’

Stage 4 is about to be installed adding extra laboratories for research without being affected by VOC's. The SPECTRUM GRAIN 3mm RUBBER flooring was selected and has performed in stage 1, 2 and 3. With stage 4 to be completed by November with inlays of designs to highlight and upgrade the environment to inspire and stimulate the mind.

‘Quality and performance cannot be substituted for price’

SPECTRUM GRAIN is one of 6 designs of contract rubber flooring which has been proven and appreciated by many users from the performance to offering a superior finish for chemical resistance, comfort and acoustics, safety and environmental performance. We look forward to discussing your next flooring requirement with you in view of you having a project of superior performance.
