Sebastian Coe predicts records will tumble on 'very fast' athletics track at Rio 2016 Olympic Games

Double Olympic champion and IAAF president reminisces about Moscow 1980 Games with Rio 2016's Agberto Guimarães during test event.

Athletics legend Sebastian Coe believes the new running track laid for the Rio 2016 Olympic Games has all the ingredients for competitors to break records this August.

Coe, a double Olympic champion in the 1500m and now president of the International Association of Athletics Federations (IAAF), paid his first visit to the Olympic Stadium in Rio on Sunday (15 May) to observe the athletics test event.

Work on the brand new blue running track has recently been completed at the venue and Coe, who also led the organising committee for the London 2012 Olympic Games, predicted stunning performances when the 60,000-capacity venue is packed to the rafters with screaming fans.

Asked if he thought the new track would inspire record-breaking performances, Coe told Rio2016.com: “I sincerely hope so. It’s a very fast surface – Mondo is a great provider of tracks and have been our partner for many years. So yes, with a full stadium of noisy, passionate track and field fans, the athletes will raise their game and rise to the occasion.

“It will be a very good event and the message to people is ‘come and watch it’. You will see some of the most outstanding athletes not just of their generation, but in the history of the sport.”
